

Vilnius is a feast for the curious, where centuries-old flavors meet playful modern cooking. From noble Lithuanian tasting menus to cozy bistros, natural wine bars, and buzzing cocktail spots, the city serves food meant to be shared, savored, and talked about. Meals unfold slowly here, guided by seasonality, local ingredients, and a love of good company – making every bite part of the story.

This hasn't gone unnoticed: Michelin recognition has shone an international spotlight on the city with the stars for four of Vilnius' top dining spots, 41 Vilnius restaurants were featured in the Falstaff Restaurant guide Nordics 2025 with top rankings on Falstaff's 100-point scale, and five restaurants earned a place on the prestigious LaListe 2025 ranking of the world's best restaurants. The dining scene moves between elegance and ease, tradition and curiosity, always inviting you to stay longer, taste more, and let the city set the pace. Vilnius offers foodies something rare – a city where gastronomy is ambitious, authentic, and genuinely fun.
